School Budget Gets Approval

Contains $64,980 Increase Over Current Fiscal Year

At the first meeting of the Sedalia School Board under its new president, Forrest Benner, the budget for the 1958-1959 school year of a recommended expenditure of $1,296,904.40 was studied and approved as submitted by Superintendent Heber U. Hunt. The recommendation made last year was $1,231,923.45.

The board met Tuesday night for its regular monthly meeting at Smith-Cotton High School. The first item on the agenda was the burning of forty-one $1,000 bonds in the school incinerator. The bonds, which were paid up Feb. 1, were a part of the $800,000 loan made on May 25, 1946, by the G. H. Walker Co.

Rebels Seize Cuba's Large Radio Station

Broadcasts Appeal For Sympathizers To Rise and Fight

HAVANA (AP) — Rebels seized Cuba's largest radio and TV stations today and broadcast an appeal for sympathizers to rise in arms and fight against the government of President Fulgencio Batista.

The rebels called for an immediate general strike. Soon afterward workers in the telephone company and other utilities began leaving their jobs and communications were crippled.

Shooting began at 11:30 a.m. in the waterfront district near the Banco Continental. This is the San Isidro district in the old part of Havana.

The firing rapidly spread to other sections of the city.

Rebel forces also seized an arms shop.

Most banks in Havana closed and in others employees suddenly quit work.

Most of the heart of the city appeared to be calm and there was no sign of rebel activity around the presidential palace or key government buildings.

In the American-owned First National City Bank about half the employees walked out.

Two heavy bomb explosions occurred at noon.

Rebels set fire to the headquarters of radio station CMQ, one of the largest in Latin America. The building also houses the CMQ TV station. The building is situated near the Hotel Nacional in the western part of the city.

It will be cooler in the west this afternoon and in the southeast portion Thursday. And for the next five days the weatherman expects temperatures in the state to be four to six degrees below normal.

Skies were cloudy this morning and rain and occasional thunderstorms are forecast this afternoon, tonight and in the east portion Thursday.

Lows tonight will be in the upper 30s in the extreme northwest to the mid-40s east and south. Highs Thursday will be in the 40s southeast to the lower 50s northwest.

Lows in the state this morning were generally in the high 40s.

Requests Federal Relief

Gov. Blair Urges Immediate Program To Ease Problems Of Unemployment

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Gov. James T. Blair urged today that Congress set up an immediate federal relief program to cope with unemployment problems.

Blair's comments came in a speech prepared for the opening of an eight-state regional conference of the American Public Welfare Assn.

"For immediate help with the extremely critical problems of unemployment," he said, "I believe the Congress should add a new category to the Federal Social Security Act, to establish a program for general assistance, and one which would include both the 'unemployables' and the 'unemployed employables.'"

He also suggested higher social security benefits, extension of federal laws on juvenile delinquency.

He noted such things require major sums of money but said "Some way must surely be found to meet the cost."

Blair said Missouri also is planning for the future but warned that "The citizens of our state must first and foremost determine the methods of obtaining revenues to pay the bill."

"Public assistance programs in this state now take one dollar in every three derived from all tax sources. Missouri ranks very high among the states in the nation in total expenditures for public assistance as compared to total tax income. But on the other hand, assistance grants to those on assistance rolls in Missouri are far too low, due principally to the fact that relatively liberal welfare laws in this state qualify large numbers of persons in each of the welfare categories."

On the state level, the governor listed these future legislative problems as most important:

A medical care program for those on the welfare rolls.

A special state commission to study the problems of the aged.

Warrensburg Firm Ruined; $45,000 Loss

McCluney's Farmers Supply building of Warrensburg was destroyed early Wednesday morning, at a loss exceeding $45,000. The business was operated by Samuel G. McCluney.

The blaze was discovered at about 2:15 a.m. by Carl Angel, janitor at Town and Country Shoe Factory eight blocks away who saw the flames from there and turned in the alarm. Two fire companies from Warrensburg, one from Knob Noster and one from Whitman Air Force Base answered the call. The fire companies from Warrensburg and Knob Noster were used but the Whitman Air Force Base stood by. The men from the base, however, relieved the other firemen with the hose.

Chief C. R. Copas received a slight burn on his left foot when burning debris fell on him. Two firemen also received minor injuries. Harvey Maxwell received a cut on his arm from a broken window glass and Marion Hancock was cut on the finger.

A truck parked by the building was destroyed but McCluney succeeded in getting a second parked truck away. He was burned, however, on the face and hair in getting the truck out.

A shed nearby caught on fire from sparks but the flames were put out quickly.

Cause of the fire is not known.

Expects Sputnik II To Fall Saturday

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Scientists say the Soviet Sputnik II with its dead dog is expected to burst apart when it plunges from outer space Saturday.

The scientists at Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory said last night the burst, if it occurs, will be caused by the air tanks that kept the dog passenger alive for some time after the satellite was launched last Nov. 3.

If the final plunge is at night, they said, the satellite will look like a flaming meteor. In the daytime it might leave a plume of smoke like a high-flying jet.

Dr. John White said that even if only a part of the original air pressure remains in the tanks, it still would be much greater than the surrounding atmosphere when the rocket starts to heat up about 50 miles above the earth.

If Pacific Series Produces Necessary Atomic Information

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower said today he would very seriously consider calling off further U.S. nuclear tests if this year's Pacific series produces all needed research information.

Eisenhower told a news conference that if such results are achieved or largely achieved it would be perfectly proper for him to declare this country's intentions—not by some international agreement, but by independent U.S. action.

But he said that as things now stand the scientists would first have to tell him exactly what it was necessary to find out about the further development of atomic explosives. Then, he said, they would have to tell him the degree to which the tests had succeeded in producing the necessary information.

Eisenhower also told reporters he thinks some parts of a new report by Dr. James R. Killian Jr. on a detection system for policing an international test ban agreement might be made public. Killian is the President's top science adviser.

Eisenhower confirmed a statement by Secretary of State Dulles yesterday that Killian and his aides have decided it would be necessary to have more detection stations in Russia than had previously been recommended by Harold Stassen, Eisenhower's former disarmament adviser.

"In the next 20 years," he said in a speech prepared for the annual sophomore pilgrimage to the state capital, "decisions will be made by men, either in this nation or some other nation, that may determine whether civilization will exist henceforth."

"Thus, when these decisions come, it is vital that we not only have men of science to cope with these momentous problems, whether they be nuclear warfare, outer space or shooting the moon and the other satellites, but have leaders of government as well to steer us through the complicated and intricate problems of economy, government and political matters."

Dulles said if the nation concentrates on turning out only scientists the nation will be doomed to fail from lack of governmental leadership. Both scientists and

3 Surviving Quads Reported Doing Fine

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A 5-foot-1, 102-pound mother gave birth to quadruplets yesterday. One was stillborn.

The surviving babies—all boys—were reported doing fine. They were placed in an incubator. They were born weighing 2 pounds 3 1/2 ounces; 2 pounds 4 ounces; and 2 pounds.

The births were the first for 19-year-old Gladys McGraw, wife of Ian McGraw, 22, an employee of a military service.

"I'm really surprised," said McGraw, a native of Scotland. "You might say I'm in a state of shock."

Residents of the area near Coltonville reported men have been at work both inside and outside the fortress-like structure for the past 10 days.

Chamber Asks Hearing on Highway Bypass

Buses Will Herald E-B Day

When the band starts playing Thursday morning, a short time after the stores downtown open, business and professional people will know the buses are coming to pick them up for Education-Business Day, and a tour of one of Sedalia's greatest industries, the schools, and P. A. Sillers, director of elementary education in the public schools, together with the Rev. F. C. Loudick of Sacred Heart and the Rev. J. T. Nolan of St. Patrick's School, have planned an interesting day.

Sillers, who is also a director of the Chamber, heading the civics division, agreed to have the buses, headed by the Smith-Cotton and Hubbard High School Bands, go down Ohio Avenue Thursday morning and pick up the business people along the way. Whether they returned their cards saying they would attend or not does not matter. The buses will leave Seventh and Ohio at 9:15 a.m.

Reporting for his own division, Sillers announced that the city beautiful committee met and has organized plans for the Yard of the Month program again this year. Also, he said, plans have been made for Clean-up, Paint-up, Fix-up Week and the date will be set in a few days.

Heber U. Hunt, superintendent of the schools, and P. A. Sillers, director of elementary education in the public schools, together with the Rev. F. C. Loudick of Sacred Heart and the Rev. J. T. Nolan of St. Patrick's School, have planned an interesting day.

Ed Kehde, Jr., director of the recreation and education division of the Chamber of Commerce and a member of the school board, appealed to the directors of the Chamber Tuesday afternoon at the regular meeting of that group to do something to awaken the business people to the value of the schools to them.

Critic Dies As Catholic

NEW YORK (AP) — George Jean Nathan, caustic drama critic who believed in a hereafter as "aboriginal," died a member of the Roman Catholic faith.

A sharp-tongued iconoclast who prided himself on being a hedonist most of his life, Nathan was baptized a Roman Catholic Oct. 9, 1957, it was learned shortly after he died yesterday at 76. He had been ill two years.

Nathan received the last rites of the church Friday from the Rev. Charles McManus of St. Patrick's Cathedral, the priest who had given him instructions and baptized him at his hotel apartment last October.

A Solemn Requiem Mass will be offered this week at St. Patrick's Cathedral.

The former Julie Haydon, actress whom he married in 1955 at the age of 73, was received into the Catholic Church a month after her husband's baptism.

Nathan's parents were both partly Jewish but his mother was a practicing Catholic, a close associate said.

"During the months after his entrance into the church, Mr. Nathan revealed that he had long

Mrs. A. A. Ferguson

City's Beautification Chairman Never Intended to Enter Clubs

Mrs. A. A. Ferguson

A little gray haired lady has played a great part in civic activities of the town, has answered every call made to her, and this year serves her community as city beautification chairman of the civics division of the Chamber of Commerce. She is Mrs. A. A. Ferguson, 1600 West Seventh.

Mrs. Ferguson is one of the foremost club women of Sedalia, but she never intended to be. It just happened, and one thing seemed to lead to another. She was born in Iowa, but later went to live in Illinois, grew up there and attended school in Bloomington. It was in Bloomington, too, that she was married to Mr. Ferguson, and they went to St. Louis to live. Then he was sent to Sedalia as assistant superintendent of the Missouri Pacific Shops. They had two children, and one of them was in school.

One day a book agent found her and sold her a set of books for helping mothers. Mrs. Ferguson was certain she didn't want to join the Mothers' Club as the books advised, but the next thing she knew she was a member of the Mothers' Club. The Mothers' Club didn't last very long, however, but somehow or other it developed into this new approach to lead to another. cause she had no one to leave with. Mrs. Ferguson always took her youngest child with her.

The little girl was very attentive at the meetings and one day when the meeting was over she asked the question that had been in her mind all along: "Why do those women always want to dress a chair?"

The PTA she belonged to was at Prospect School. There were two presidents before her, serving one or two years and she became the third president.

While she was president, she had a very unpleasant experience. One evening the telephone rang and a school official told her he wished she would attend to her own business and not make trouble. She was upset. She didn't know of any people in it she perhaps would never have known otherwise. She still belongs to the Nautilus Club.

Then she was asked to become a member of the Fortnightly Book Club, which is a small, but a very interesting organization. She is still a member of that, too, and has served as its president several times and filled other offices.

About 1933 the Garden Club was started. The first one was too large to meet in the homes so another circle was organized which was called Circle II. They are now called clubs instead of circles. She served as chairman, now called president, twice, of Circle II and has served on most of the committees. All of these clubs are affiliated with the Council of Garden Clubs and she has been a huge yard, both of them like flowers and particularly roses. So they like to work together in their yard, and they like to work in the Rose Society with other couples. Mrs. Ferguson has served as Rose Show chairman for this organization and is now treasurer.

Her love for flowers is not limited to the yard. She has all kinds of house plants, too, including a large assortment of African violets. She has the African violets in the large window of her dining room and the other plants in the windows at the east end of her spacious living room during winter. In the summer she takes them out to a place perfect for them at the back of her house which is on the north.

The Red Cross has taken a share of her time, too. She has taken Red Cross first aid and other subjects. During World War II, the Gray Ladies were trained for hospital work. A large class was trained at the air base by the military. She had a group she was responsible for and they went each week to the base. Later she served as chairman of the Gray Ladies. She has since resigned as trouble she had been making, and then he explained that a teacher and one of her pupils had had trouble and one of the parents of the child had gone to the official about it. So the official decided that this new organization, the PTA, was back of it.

The PTA really had some rough times at first, she said. Teachers, parents and often the superintendents were not always in agreement. There seemed to be a job to do, however, and one of the things the PTA members thought was needed was soup kitchens. So they started them, and the women took turns preparing the soup in a makeshift kitchen. They gave entertainments to make money for this and other projects.

And of course, there was the church. She is a member of the Federated Church. She kept getting more involved in the active sites there. First she taught a Sunday School class, then she became superintendent of one of the departments and then she was president of the Missionary Society.

About this time she joined Sorosis. At first she wasn't too active — she just went. Then she was elected treasurer and served her two years. She served on committees and at the time Sorosis withdrew from the General Federation of Women's Club, she was holding an office in the 5th District. That left her on a spot. The only thing she knew to do was resign her office, but when she tried, the state president told her she couldn't under the circumstances, she would just have to join another club that was in the General Federation. Mrs. Ferguson looked around for another club to join. So she joined the Nautilus Club in LaMonte. She has never been sorry about this, because she found this a very wonderful club with a lot of grand people in it she perhaps would never have known otherwise. She still belongs to the Nautilus Club.

Problem Kids Constitute 30 Per Cent

By G. K. HODENFORD AP Education Reporter

KANSAS CITY (AP) — About 30 per cent of the nation's schoolchildren are problem kids of one sort or another. Yet only a handful are getting the special training they need.

Some 2,000 specialists tackled that problem today. They've been wrestling with it for years, and they know there are no easy answers.

The arithmetic alone is staggering. There are some 33½ million children attending grades 1 through 12. Between 3½ and 4 million of these are special cases, whether they are abnormally bright or abnormally dull.

"The gifted student is just as much a problem in our school system today as the dull child," said Dr. Maurice H. Fournacre, president of the International Council for Exceptional Children. "Both need special courses, special methods and special teachers to develop them to their fullest capacity. We just aren't doing enough for our children at either end of the academic scale."

In the annual five-day convention of the ICEC, the specialists will discuss the problems of bright and dull children, the crippled or otherwise physically handicapped, and the emotionally disturbed. These are the 11 or 12 per cent of the nation's school population below the college level who are considered exceptional.

Another 20 per cent are slow learners, whose unique problems are recognized, but for whom no special study groups have been formed on a national scale.

Dr. Fournacre, in an interview,

Versailles Seniors Receive Recognition

Eight seniors from Versailles High School have received certificates of recognition for scholastic achievement from Missouri University. In the group are John Washburn, Lela Dilcom, Robert Earne, Betty Ferguson, Harriett Goodwin, Fern Junk, Frances Waddell and Wanda Waller. Harriett Goodwin, the highest ranking senior, is nominated for a curators scholarship.

gave this rough breakdown of the 3½ to 4 million exceptional children:

Those who can be trained but not educated, 1 per cent; those who are mentally retarded but who may be educated to a degree, 2 per cent; the gifted, or exceptionally bright, 2 per cent; crippled, 1 to 1½ per cent; partially or completely blind, 1 per cent; partially or completely deaf, 1 per cent; those with speech defects, about 2 per cent; and the emotionally disturbed, 1 per cent.

Progress, however slow, is being made with all these groups, Fournacre said.

Gates Rounds Out One Year As Navy Head

WASHINGTON — Thomas S. Gates Jr., who rounded out his first year as secretary of the Navy April 1, pointed with pride today to what he termed the "new Gates plan."

To football fans the Gates plan was the name applied to a de-emphasis of the gridiron game at the University of Pennsylvania in the mid-1930s.

That was when Gates' father, the late Thomas S. Gates Sr., was president of the university.

"Today my colleagues call the reorganization of the Navy in my first eight months in office the new Gates plan," Gates said in an interview.

That reorganization has seen substantial changes in America's powerful sea forces. The aircraft carrier has become the capital ship of the Navy, the last of the battleships is in mothballs and priority has been given to construction of nuclear-powered submarines and missile experimentation.

Gates envisions the Navy of the future as being largely underwater, with missiles launched from nuclear-powered undersea craft.

"Construction of 27 nuclear submarines has been authorized," he said, but noted that the transition is being accomplished in an orderly manner.

The Navy must be prepared for anything from a cold war to a general war to a limited war, he said.

High priority, Gates said, also is being given to antisubmarine warfare because of the Soviet concentration on undersea craft.

The old battlewagon, long the pride of the fleet, has lost its usefulness Gates believes.

"The cruiser has proved to be a better launching platform for missiles," Gates said, "and is less expensive to maintain."

Gates, born April 10, 1906, will be 52 tomorrow. Tall and apparently physically fit, he looks forward to the day when he will leave his job as secretary.

"It's been an interesting, hard experience," said Gates, "but it is not a life I would want to live forever."

Gates came to Washington as undersecretary of the Navy in 1953 and with nearly five years behind him believes he has had adequate experience. He said he originally intended spending about three years here, but still has no intention of resigning immediately.

A captain in the Naval Reserve, Gates served in both the Atlantic and the Pacific in World War II. Prior to coming to Washington, Gates was an investment banker. His home is at Devon, a Philadelphia suburb. He has three daughters and four grandchildren.

Three Minute Test for Cancer Being Tried Out

By RENNIE TAYLOR AP Science Reporter

LOS ANGELES — A three-minute test for cancer, which flashes red for danger and green for safety, is being tried out here.

More than 4,000 persons have been tested so far. The test's originator estimates it is wrong in no more than 3 to 5 per cent of the cases.

Dr. Ludwig von Bertalanffy, who developed the procedure, told about its early trials in a meeting with science writers touring research projects sponsored by the American Cancer Society.

Among 700 women suspected of having cancer of the cervix, or neck, of the womb, the test found 58 cases indicating cancer and 57 of these turned out to have malignancies.

Dr. von Bertalanffy said the tests, however, yields only what physicians call provisional judgments. But it can single out the suspicious cases and leave the final decision for established procedures.

Ike Decides

It was Eisenhower's third meeting with newsmen in as many weeks—and the first time he has held news conferences three weeks in a row since last August.

The discussion ranged over many topics:

DEFENSE — Eisenhower said vigorously that he doesn't care how many in Congress may oppose his defense reorganization plan—he intends to fight for it with every means at his command.

That will include, he added, going to the nation on television just as frequently as the TV networks will grant him time, if that should become necessary.

WOODLAND — Surgery: Robert Faris, Houstonia.

DISMISSED: Miss Ann Louise Egan, Shackelford.

City Makes Hard Life For Papers

UTICA, N.Y. (AP) — City Hall is making life hard for the Utica newspapers, which have been campaigning against crime and vice in this upstate city.

Mayor John T. McKennan refused yesterday to give news to William A. Lohden, a reporter for the afternoon Observer-Dispatch and the morning Press. The papers, members of the Gannett group, backed Lohden up and ordered him to return to his City Hall beat today.

The mayor's action followed a request last week by the city's Common Council for a federal investigation of the papers' advertising policy.

Lohden said McKennan, a Democrat, told him his reporting had been "prejudicial." In a statement later, the mayor asserted that the papers had "distorted, suppressed and misrepresented news of local matters."

However, McKennan said he would continue to give news to Ray Martin, another reporter who has been covering City Hall for several months for the Utica papers. McKennan said Martin was "fair."

Lohden, assigned to join Martin after covering recent investigations of vice in the city, commented: "If the mayor is going to make such charges, he should substantiate them."

Martin declined comment.

Mason C. Taylor, executive editor of the papers, declared: "Mr. Lohden is an able, accurate and fair-minded reporter. He will continue to cover the City Hall beat."

The Democratic-controlled Common Council last Wednesday passed a resolution calling on the U.S. Justice Department to investigate the "monopolistic practices of our local newspapers." The resolution said advertisers in one paper were forced to advertise in the other as well.

J. David Hogue, the papers' general manager, said they had been quoting individual rates for more than two months.

Taylor said the action was "obviously . . . intended as retaliation against the strong stand the Utica newspapers have taken against vice and crime."

Public attention was drawn to crime in Utica as a result of a national gangland meeting at Apalachin, N.Y., about 100 miles southwest of here, last Nov. 14.

Three delegates were from Utica.

Two state agencies and a grand jury have been conducting investigations of conditions in the city.

The Police Department also has undergone a shakeup. The chief and his deputy left the force and several patrolmen were suspended.

A grand jury, which has indicted several alleged brothelkeepers, returned its first indictment against a public official. James N. Laino, a one-time deputy police chief, was accused of perjury.

Details of the indictment were not available.

Judy Garland Gets Gems Out of Hock

NEW YORK (AP) — Judy Garland has her jewelry and costumes again and New York state has $8,673 the singer owed in back income taxes.

Two certified checks, one covering $262 in court fees and interest and the other the back taxes, were handed over by the singer's attorney Maurice Greenbaum.

He refused to reveal who put up the money. He said it was given to her by "someone who had trust in Judy."

Miss Garland did not appear in court. Greenbaum gave the checks to an attorney for the State Tax Commission in the chambers of Acting Justice William B. Great of New York State Supreme Court.

Great released a suitcase full of jewelry and six stage costumes Miss Garland had put up to guarantee payment.

Miss Garland was scheduled to appear in court last Thursday to straighten out her tax bill for the years 1951 and 1952. When she failed to appear she was placed under civil arrest and ordered to put up a $10,000 bond for her re-appearance.

It was agreed that instead of $10,000 she could put up her jewelry and costumes.

Search for Gorilla Apparently Is Over

WASHINGTON (AP) — The search apparently is over for the gorilla of Washington's Rock Creek Park.

Police said they are convinced the monster that terrified several couples by rappelling on and peer-ing into parked cars was the product of two teen-age pranksters.

Lt. Albert Krueger said a woman called police and reported that her son and a companion obtained some theatrical gorilla costumes last week. And they have been testing audience reaction in the park ever since, she said.

The woman didn't identify herself or the youths.

Poker Palaces Win

GARDENA, Calif. (AP) — Legal draw poker drew a winning hand at the polls. A proposal to outlaw the city's poker palaces was overwhelmingly defeated. The vote in 17 of 23 precincts was 1,554 in favor of the proposal to ban legal poker and 4,496 opposed.

Restraint Of Impaired Drivers

Taking to the open road for a relaxing vacation is not all it's supposed to be when you learn that five motorists were killed in a state through which you had traveled over the week end.

Hazards are mounting. Road construction is not keeping pace with the increased number of vehicles using the highways. There are more drivers who resent controls of law when they are behind the wheel of an automobile and give rein to a sense of power they may not otherwise experience. They get a lift out of taking a chance and escaping accident.

Safe at last in a motel in Hattiesburg, Miss., after 740 miles of driving south encountering numerous idiots of the road one cannot help but be impressed with the Motor Vehicles Branch of the Ontario (Canada) Highway Department which has a five-man medical board whose duty it is to investigate, review and judge cases of mental and physical abnormality among drivers.

Composed of four neuro-psychiatrists, two from the Department of Health and two private practitioners, and an official of the motor vehicles branch, the board's recommendations on whether a person is fit to operate a vehicle are always acted upon by the Department of Highways.

An average of 40 such cases a month are presented to the board. They are not diagnosed and resolved without medical and other histories of the persons involved.

Pertinent to this subject is the action of a traffic judge in Memphis, Tenn., who promptly lifted the license of a driver who lost consciousness while driving because of a cerebral attack. In two previous cases he had recommended to the State Safety Department that the suspensions remain in effect until the affected drivers could present physicians' certificates of physical fitness.

Missouri and other state legislatures which have not provided for a requirement of physical and mental fitness in licensing of automobile drivers should give this corrective attention.

Mounting highway carnage and property damage may be considerably lessened if the drivers' license laws are tightened from the standpoint of ability to drive. Increasing the severity of punishment of reckless drivers by fines and even jail sentences do not have the restraint that a suspension or revocation of a license to drive affords.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

New Attorney General Faces Challenge

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — The new Attorney General, William Rogers, is a brilliant young man who has a chance to restore the Justice Department to its one-time position of applying justice with blindfolded impartiality. Under both the Truman and Eisenhower administrations this has not been the case.

For years the Post Office Department was the big political patronage arm of government, with the Postmaster General lading out Postmasterships to the party faithful. But with more and more Postmasterships put under civil service, the real political wing of government has become the Justice Department.

This should not be, but it is. If the Attorney General can discreetly keep a man from going to jail for income tax evasion, it may mean a heavy campaign contribution. Or if a big corporation, whose officers have contributed handsomely to the party, gets into antitrust trouble, it's the Attorney General who can get it out of trouble.

For a long time when the Democrats controlled the Justice Department I tried to get them to revoke the citizenship of underworld mobster Frankie Costello. I pointed out that Costello had lied in making out his naturalization papers by failing to admit he had a brush with the law for carrying a concealed weapon, therefore could be deported. However, Costello was close to certain Democratic leaders in New York, had shared a hotel room with Tammany leader Hines at Chicago when FDR was nominated in 1932. The then Democratic administration of the Justice Department did not move. This should not be, but it is. If the Attorney General can discreetly keep a man from going to jail for income tax evasion, it may mean a heavy campaign contribution. Or if a big corporation, whose officers have contributed handsomely to the party, gets into antitrust trouble, it's the Attorney General who can get it out of trouble.

The charge is based on clearcut evidence that Len Hall, as chairman of the GOP, asked for a contribution from the Frederick H. Snare Co. in July, 1954, before that company was given a $43,000,000 contract by the U. S. government to expand its Nicaro Nickel plant in Cuba. Demanding such contributions in connection with a government contract is a criminal offense.

The Snare Company had done the original work on the Nicaro plant, was recommended by the Eisenhower administration as best qualified to do the additional work. But, according to Randall Cremer, vice president of Snare, Hall not only made it clear that he would have to make a contribution to the GOP, but also said:

"If you get the contract we will expect to get the placing of the insurance and the bonds."

Later Cremer noted in his diary that Hall was balking at letting Snare have the contract because he had "received no corroboration from the finance chairman in New York and New Jersey." When Snare officials contributed $7,000 in the summer of 1954 they got the Nicaro contract.

Complained Cremer: "It so happens that all our officers are lifelong Republicans. . . . the (original) Nicaro contracts were given us during Democratic administrations, but the question of politics was never considered."

These are some of the facts facing new Attorney General Rogers. Upon his decision will depend whether the Justice Department once again becomes the impartial administrator of justice.

indict Lamar Caudle and the secretary of President Truman. Are you going to examine the activities of a high-up Republican?"

Serious Charges

Mr. Rogers then bragged about getting a final higher court affirmation in the Caudle case (regarding which more in a later column), but he never answered the question as to whether he would call a grand jury to probe extremely serious charges officially made by a committee of Congress that the chairman of the GOP had committed a criminal offense.

Meanwhile Congressman Brooks, chairman of the Government Operations Subcommittee, has written another letter to Rogers, April 8, asking him what he has done about this serious charge and whether he intends to do anything.

The charge is based on clearcut evidence that Len Hall, as chairman of the GOP, asked for a contribution from the Frederick H. Snare Co. in July, 1954, before that company was given a $43,000,000 contract by the U. S. government to expand its Nicaro Nickel plant in Cuba. "If you get the contract we will expect to get the placing of the insurance and the bonds."

Later Cremer noted in his diary that Hall was balking at letting Snare have the contract because he had "received no corroboration from the finance chairman in New York and New Jersey." When Snare officials contributed $7,000 in the summer of 1954 they got the Nicaro contract.

Complained Cremer: "It so happens that all our officers are lifelong Republicans. . . . the (original) Nicaro contracts were given us during Democratic administrations, but the question of politics was never considered."

These are some of the facts facing new Attorney General Rogers. Upon his decision will depend whether the Justice Department once again becomes the impartial administrator of justice.

The Canadian Election

It is one of the curious ironies that we in the United States seem to pay far more attention to national elections in Europe and more distant spots than we do to major balloting in Canada, our northern neighbor with whom we have long enjoyed extremely friendly and economically rewarding relations.

Right now the second national campaign in less than a year is under way north of the border, with the future of Prime Minister Diefenbaker's Conservative government—first in 22 years—at stake.

And the election there is of more than ordinary concern to Americans. Diefenbaker, disturbed by Canada's one-billion-dollar trade deficit with the United States, has instituted a policy of curbing imports from us in favor of larger imports from Great Britain.

The Liberal party, led in this election for the first time by the celebrated diplomat, Lester Pearson, opposes this policy as damaging to U.S.-Canadian relations.

We have no right to take sides in this combat.

But our interest in the outcome March 31 can not help but be great.

Administration Finally Picks Up Speed

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — It's taken the Eisenhower administration four months, eight letters and three notes to wake up to the idea it might be smarter to answer the Soviets a little faster.

The Soviets have been giving the administration a propaganda clubbing and yesterday Secretary of State Dulles said the administration was trying to "speed up its operations" so the Soviets will not have the play all to themselves so long.

Last fall the Soviets scored an overwhelming propaganda victory by launching their Sputniks. It took this country months to get its own satellites aloft.

Then on Friday Khrushchev sent Eisenhower a note on stopping nuclear tests. Eisenhower answered making more propaganda for themselves. On Dec. 10 Premier Bulganin, in a letter to President Eisenhower, represented the Soviet Union as a big peace-lover that wanted negotiations and a summit talk to straighten things out.

With the whole world worried about nuclear tests, the Soviets announced they would stop their nuclear tests. This time the State Department was ready and fired off an answer immediately.

Then on Friday Khrushchev sent Eisenhower a note on stopping nuclear tests. Eisenhower answered making more propaganda for themselves. On Dec. 10 Premier Bulganin, in a letter to President Eisenhower, represented the Soviet Union as a big peace-lover that wanted negotiations and a summit talk to straighten things out.

It took Eisenhower more than a month to answer. In that time the Soviet Union stood before the world as the one proposing peaceful negotiations while this country tried to think up an answer.

Eisenhower finally wrote Bulganin Jan. 12. But by that time Bulganin had sent him another letter. This was Jan. 8. On Jan. 20 Eisenhower answered Bulganin's second letter with a 40-word note.

Bulganin sent another letter Feb. 1. It took Eisenhower 14 days to answer that one.

Looking Backward...

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO George Bertheoux was selected president of the Sedalia Board of Education at a meeting at the High School; Dr. F. B. Long, vice-president; E. W. Dugan, treasurer, and Miss Bird Tavener, secretary.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Couey and son, Lawrence, Jr., Washington, D. C., were here visiting his parents, Judge and Mrs. E. W. Couey.

A Chevrolet automobile owned by the Rev. W. W. Bradley, taken from in front of the church at Fifth and Hancock, was recovered at a garage two miles south of Osceola.

Raymond P. Brandt, former Sedalian, president of the National Press Club, presented on behalf of that body a membership certificate to President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

—FORTY YEARS AGO Walter J. Kennedy, formerly superintendent of mails at the Sedalia postoffice, was made assistant postmaster succeeding W. A. Challacombe.

About 120 couples attended a dance at Liberty Park Convention Hall given by the Sedalia Federation of Labor. Kroencke's orchestra furnished the music. Proceeds were to go to defray expenses of the state labor convention to be held in September.

E. G. Bylander, secretary of the Missouri State Fair returned from Jefferson City where he had been in interest of the 1918 annual exposition.

G. W. Woodson, special watchman for the MKT, and W. H. Bassett left for St. Louis in connection with railroad business.

GMC-UAW Set Another Bargaining Session

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors and the United Auto Workers Union set another bargaining session today as negotiators apparently attempted to agree on secondary phases of a new contract before they tackle main issues.

Absence of top negotiators at a 1½-hour session yesterday indicated the talks centered on what are known as non-economic provisions of the labor contract.

These would include seniority, job classifications and working conditions in the shops.

The talks were resumed yesterday after a 12-day recess. At the start of negotiations March 25, UAW President Walter P. Reuther presented the union's controversial profit sharing proposal.

The present three-year contract expires May 29. The present hourly wage in auto plants is about $2.40.

Says He Backed Into A Perfume Bottle

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Did Shelley Winters sock her husband Anthony Franciosa with a perfume bottle?

The actress yesterday told police she did and then, a few hours later, she said Franciosa backed into the bottle.

Franciosa, nursing a sore ear, agreed with his wife's version: while letting the dog out Sunday evening he backed into a shelf and the perfumed bottle toppled and bopped him on the ear.

Miss Winters originally told officers she threw the bottle at Franciosa when he yealed at her daughter Vittoria, 5.

Vittoria's governess Mrs. Kathryn McCaskill said that from another room she heard a violent argument and then the tinkling of glass.

Jobless Unionists Meet Locked Doors

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A crowd of 4,000 jobless unionists lobbying for emergency help from the state legislature ran into closed doors yesterday. A union leader called it a lockout.

State Rep. George M. Van Peursem, Republican House speaker, replied that denial of House floor privileges was only normal procedure under the circumstances.

The sergeants-at-arms who closed the heavy wooden doors on the swarming unionists were enforcing normal House rules, he said, and without special direction. The few with specific invitation from a legislator were admitted.

August Schoole, state AFL-CIO president, looked at it differently. "At no time have there ever been locked doors on the legislature to prevent the people from talking to their elected representatives," he said.

He also criticized the Senate and House for taking a recess most of the day, leaving many legislators nowhere to be found when the union crowds showed up. He laid the blame on Republican majorities in both chambers.

A controversial bill concerning emergency unemployment compensation benefits for persons who have exhausted regular eligibility is pending.

Machen, Folley Battle Tonight In Cow Palace

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Ambitious heavyweights Eddie Machen and Zora Folley, the No. 1 and No. 2 title contenders, battle tonight at the Cow Palace with their expected big prize still a phantom in his future.

Both hoped when they signed for the 12-rounders that the winner would get a shot at champion Floyd Patterson.

The National Boxing Assn. says it hopes so too, but the champ's manager Gus D'Amato says the undefeated Machen forfeited his chance to fight for the title by refusing a previous offer and says "no comment" when asked about it.

Machen of Redding, Calif., unbeaten in 24 fights, has stopped 16 foes. Folley, from Chandler, Ariz., with a 39-2-1 record, hasn't been defeated in 17 straight fights and lists 25 knockouts. The Californian is the 2-1 wagering favorite.

Both fighters aim for early knockouts.

The two Negro boxers resemble each other in physical characteristics and each expects to enter the ring at about 195 pounds. Machen is 5-1 and Folley an inch taller. The reach of each is 75 inches with a normal chest of 42.

His statement came after reports that IAAF had threatened to set up its own track and field championships every two years sandwiched around but in competition with the Olympics.

In Chicago, Avery Brundage, IOC president, said he had not heard of the reported IAAF revolt, but added, "I am unalterably opposed to such a tax, or small surcharge, although I am aware that the IAAF needs some assistance. But such a tax would not be countenanced by the public."

The five rescued men—all in good condition—are James Flynn, 26, pilot of a helicopter that crashed Saturday at the 10,500-foot level, and four hydrographers who were running a snow survey for Southern California Edison Co.

They are William Matthews, Paul Wiley, Howard Spano and Donald Rose.

Los Angeles opens the season at San Francisco next Wednesday.

Black Bear Killed By Wildlife Official

LAWLOGAN, Ohio — A big 250-pound black bear, which no one seemed to want, was killed yesterday by an official of the Ohio Division of Wildlife. It was feared the animal might injure someone.

The bear, believed to have been a pet, was discovered last Thursday roaming in wooded hill country near Ash Cave Park 15 miles southwest of here. He ate from people's hands and did tricks for news photographers.

Several zoos turned down offers to take the animal, so wildlife officials ordered him destroyed.

court wearing pantaloons several sizes too large for him, his hair braided in a queue, a cloth cap pulled low over his eyes, and carrying a green baize bag in the manner of English lawyers. He went armed with pistols and knives, although he was never known to use either. He was habitually profane, and when a short time before his death he was urged by friends to seek religion he replied, "I have served the devil all my life and it wouldn't be right to desert him now." But he was greatly beloved and highly respected by all those who knew him best. A Missouri county was named for him in 1821. His death occurred in Ste. Genevieve in 1861.

7. What was his name? A. John Scott.

mation of a State constitution and State government; the establishment of State boundaries; grants for land for education, a State university, and a State capitol; and

In Congress he sponsored Missouri's petitions for statehood and as one of the framers of Missouri's first constitution he was the author of the provisions on education. Who was he?

1. What was his background?

A. Born in Hanover County, Virginia, in 1782, he was graduated from Princeton University and moved with his parents to Indiana Territory. In 1804 he settled in Ste. Genevieve, Missouri, where his superior education and ability placed him in the front rank of lawyers.

2. How did he begin his political career?

A. He was appointed to the Legislative Council of Missouri Territory in 1813 and the next year he was nominated United States attorney. A series of articles in the Missouri Gazette during his 1816 campaign for election to Congress caused him to challenge each of the five authors of the series to a duel. Friends brought about a peaceful settlement between him and Charles Lucas, the only one who accepted his challenge. Defeating Rufus Easton by a plurality of 15 votes, he took his seat in Congress as a territorial delegate December 2, 1816. But the election was contested on the ground of illegality of the votes of Cote Sans Dessein precinct, and Congress declared the seat vacant January 13, 1817. A new election resulted in his victory, and he served from August 4, 1817, to March 3, 1818.

3. What did he accomplish as a territorial delegate from Missouri?

A. He was instrumental in the passage of the Missouri Enabling Act of 1820, providing for the formation of a State legislature.

5. What event terminated his political career?

A. Elected as Missouri's first congressman, he served as the State's only representative in the House from 1820 to 1826. In the presidential election of 1825, his decision to cast his vote for John Quincy Adams against Andrew Jackson, the favored candidate in Missouri, cost him his political future. He was defeated for re-election in 1826 and never again held public office.

6. What was his later career?

A. He maintained a large private law practice in Ste. Genevieve. He usually appeared in removal of slavery restriction on Missouri as set forth in the first Missouri Compromise.

4. What was his work in Missouri's first constitutional convention?

A. As one of the principal delegates in the 41-member convention of 1820, he wrote the sections in the constitution providing for public education, the limitation of gerrymandering in the establishment of senatorial districts, the disqualification of soldiers and sailors from voting in Missouri while in active service, and the compensation of members of the State legislature.

7. What was his name?

A. John Scott.

Owner Injures Man Retrieving Pork

KANSAS CITY — A man carrying two packages of pork steak inside his long underwear was cut on the leg as a supermarket operator tried to retrieve the meat with a butcher knife.

Police said Marvin Gray, 39, was stopped in the store and admitted having the packages.

But Gray and two store employees couldn't get the meat out. So they decided to cut the underwear leg.

In the process Gray suffered a three-inch cut on the left leg above the ankle. He was treated at a hospital and jailed for investigation.
